TEACHER TRAINING AND YOUR ORGANIZATION

If you are a company with extensive training needs, consider developing your own in-house language teacher. Crossing Borders understands that Human Resources and Relocation departments are not always equipped with the background, or time necessary to hire and/or train a language teacher. Crossing Borders has the experience and expertise to do the job for you.

When Crossing Borders trains an in-house language teacher your company will receive support from start to finish. Crossing Borders can help you evaluate your existing staff, or offer assistance with hiring new staff. Crossing Borders has been teaching languages and culture to adults and children for the last decade. Our staff has the training and experience to give your language instructor all the tools necessary to be effective, dynamic and confident.

Our teacher training system is organized into sections and modules. Section A is Instruction, which consists of 5 modules. Each module is 3 hours long and explores topics necessary to a teacher's pedagogical preparation. Section B is Practicum, this section has 2 modules: class observation and student teaching. Our teacher-training program is based on research methods used by schools and universities around the world. Crossing Borders provides teacher trainees curriculum, preparation, and on-going support.

We were looking for a company to provide English teacher training and certification to our associates. I found Crossing Borders online and was intrigued by the wide variety of programs they offer. We provided Crossing Borders with our specific requirements and they customized a program and training schedule that exceeded our expectations. I am very satisfied with my Crossing Borders training. The staff is very knowledgeable and their materials are easy to use. The techniques I have learned will definitely help us in reaching our company's training goals.

INSTRUCTOR ASSESSMENTS

The key to every great class is a great teacher. No matter how interested or dedicated a student may be it is the effectiveness of the teacher that determines the class's quality. At Crossing Borders we believe this and will use our knowledge and experience to help your company cultivate the best teacher possible.

All teacher candidates will be evaluated for both language proficiency and potential. Language teachers must be great communicators, love working with people and understand that language learning is a journey. Our teacher evaluation includes a written language assessment, verbal interview and a personality profile. Once this process is completed Crossing Borders will make a recommendation as to the candidate's acceptance into the teacher-training program.

This step is essential in ensuring that companies get the best return on their investment possible. Crossing Borders is dedicated to training quality teachers. Companies are asked to submit a non-refundable $500 application and assessment fee before any training package is purchased. The assessment fee is applied toward package purchases once an outstanding teacher has been selected.

Once a candidate has been selected Section A classes can be scheduled out our office or at your location. However, all Section B classes will be held at the Crossing Borders office.

One who teaches effectively teaches not only his subject but himself. Personality is that part of the teacher's self which he/she projects into every classroom activity, thereby affecting and conditioning every learning situation.
